FORE WORD

Eng. Moses Magogo Hassim

President of the Federation of Uganda Football Associations

Allow me congratulate the 25 pioneer graduates of our FAMACO Level II course coming to an end after this 400HRS course.

When we talk of quality, there is no shortcut. It will require strategy, consistence and commitment from FUFA administration as well as members of the football eco-system especially in functional roles of serving the beautiful game.

We developed a long term football technical development plan, discussed with stakeholders in a symposium at FTC Njeru and now its approved by FUFA ExCO. The plan is aimed at projecting our efforts on development of football on the pitch. For proper implementation, we shall need top quality football HR from clubs and association. One of the avenues to create this elite HR is through such a rigorous course you are completing today.

ABOUT FAMACO II

The course brings a variety of experts with specific focus on the latest trends in relation to;

The FUFA FAMACO II is the prime industry oriented, practical and solution-based training by FUFA Administration drawn purposely for exploring graduate professionals from various fields of academic studies, into strategic and operational organization and running of football associations and clubs. It will equip them with current practical know-how and insights studied in class and the field (attachment), one that is needed to transform the associations and clubs into professional entities.

TOP QUALITY INSTRUCTORS

The first edition of the FAMACO II Course, organized by FUFA, featured top-quality football instructors who left an indelible mark on the participants. These seasoned professionals brought a wealth of knowledge and experience to the table, enhancing the learning experience for all involved. Their expertise not only covered the technical aspects of the game but also extended to the nuances of coaching and player development, providing a holistic education that was invaluable to aspiring coaches.

The instructors' passion for the sport was evident in their engaging teaching methods, fostering a deep appreciation for football and a commitment to excellence among the course participants. Their dedication to nurturing the next generation of football coaches was commendable, as they shared their insights and wisdom generously. The first edition of the FAMACO II Course owes much of its success to these exceptional instructors, who have set a high standard for future iterations and have undoubtedly contributed to the growth and development of football coaching in the region.
